New School Adventure

KENTWOOD
PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Next year, I will go to a new school.
Some schools in my district are changing.

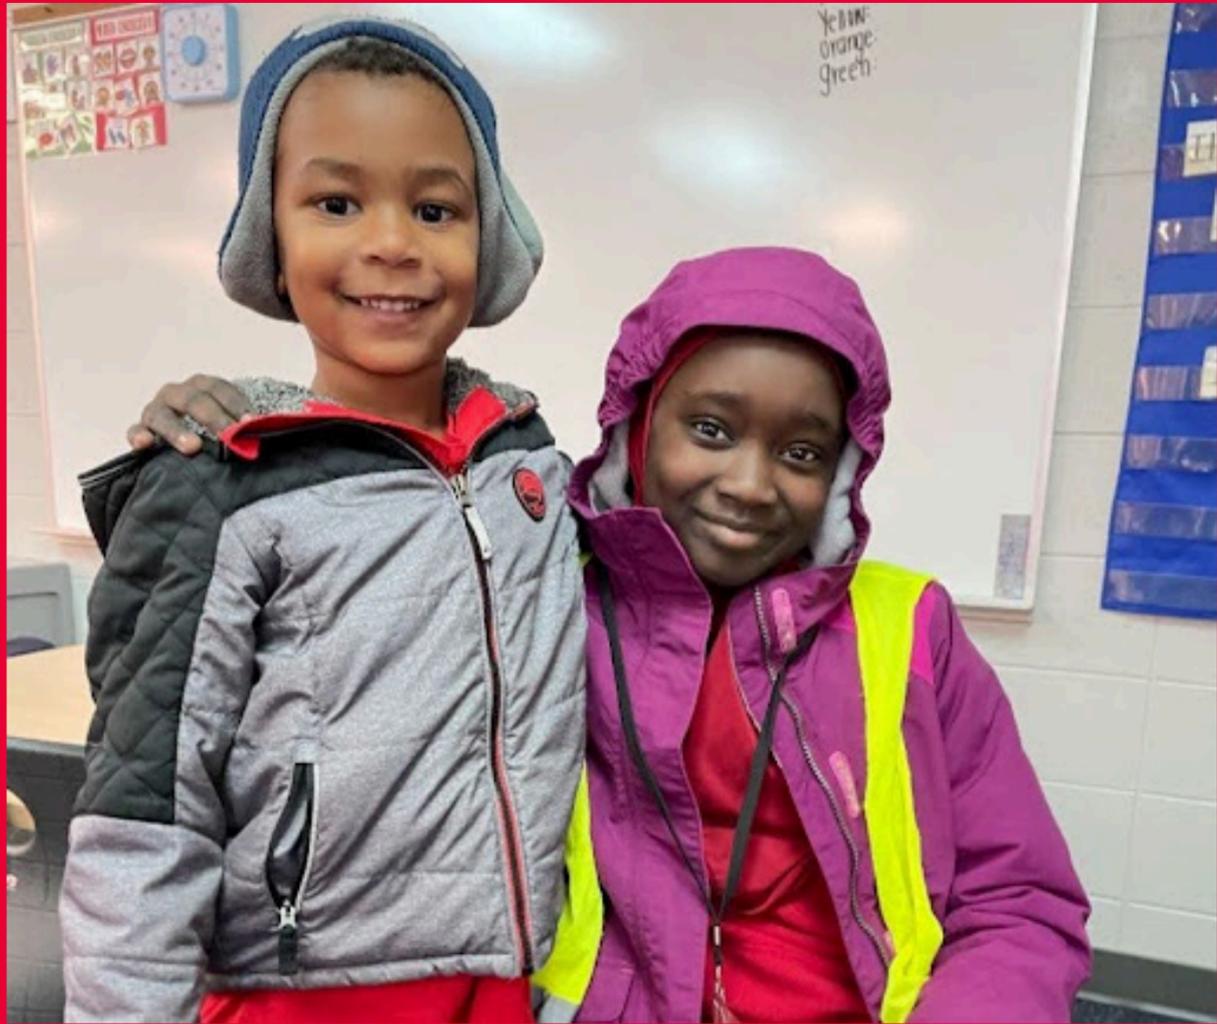

This means that some of my friends will stay at their schools,
and some will go to new schools.

I feel a little nervous about this change. It is okay to feel this way.
Change can be exciting and a little scary at the same time.

My new school will be ready to welcome me because I belong here.

The new school will have different teachers and new friends. I can meet new friends and learn new things. We all belong here.

Everyone at my new school will be kind and excited to meet me because I belong here.

The new school will have a playground, just like my old school.
I can play with my new friends there because I belong here.

It's great that I can practice being brave. I can say "hello" to new friends and invite them to play. They will be happy to meet me because we all belong here.

If I need help, I can ask my teacher or my grown up. They will be happy to help me because they care about me, and I belong here.

I can think about all the fun things I will do at my new school.
I will learn new things, play games, and make new friends.

I am excited about my new school adventure! Change can be good, and I will be okay because I belong here.
